Princepure, Va., May 38, 1890.
Dr. W. W. McElrath, a popular young dentist of the growing town of Radford, was married this morning at 10:30 o'clock to Miss Otelia Hawkins, the charming daughter of Mr. John J. Hawkins. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents on Bollingbrook street and was a quiet, delightful afair. Rev. B. R. Acree, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. The couple left for their home in Radford.

This afternoon at 5:30 o'clock Mr. Chastine I. Howard, of Richmond, was married to Miss Virginia Belle Farrell, daughter of the late Luke Farrell, of this citv. Miss Nellic Carlin and Mr. J. Gus. Hankins, of Richmond, were the waiters. The marriage was performed in the parlors of the Catholic parsonage by Rev. Father O'Ferrell, and it was witnessed by the immediate friends of the parties. The couple left on the evening train for Richmond.

MEETING LONGSTREET.

FREDERICKSEURG, VA., May 28.—Mr. A. H.
Dickinson and Miss Emma Jefferson, both of this city, were quietly married in the parlors of the Exchange Hotel this evening by Rev. J. W. Canter, of the Methodist Church. The bride is a beautiful and lawyer of considerable prominence and ability. They left on the evening train for Richmond, where they will spend their honeymoon.

THE FIFTY-FIRST CONGRESS. State Control of the Liquor Traffic-Rivers

Washington, May 28.—Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported an amendment to be offered to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, authorizing the President to carry into effect the recommendations of the International Conference by the appointment by and with the advice and consent of the Scinate of three commissioners to represent the United States in the Intercontinental Railway Commission, whose compensation is to be raid from a common fund to be contributed by the several nations interested; also to detail from the army and navy such officers as may be spared without detriment to the service to serve as engineers under such commission in making (By telegraph to the Dispatch.) out detriment to the service to serve as engineers under such commission in making the survey, their expenses to be paid by the commission, and appropriating $65,000 as the share of the United States of the expenses of such commission and survey.

Among the bills reported from committees and placed on the calendar were:

Senate bill appropriating $15,000 for a post-office building at Fortress Monroe, Va. Senate bill to provide for a commission

Senate ball to provide for a commission on the subject of the alcoholic liquor traffic.

The Senate bill subjecting imported liquors to the laws of the several States was again taken up, and Mr. Morgan made an argument against its constitutionality.

Mr. Pugh argued in favor of the bill. He held that there were but two ways of providing for the position in which the States were left by the recent decision of the Supreme Court. One of these ways was the passage of the pending bill, and the other way was by an amendment of the Constitution. It would be training with the subject to talk about amending the Constitution. He was for the substance, not for the form and shadow; and any legislation that would remedy the evil would meet his approval. He thought that the pending bill would do so, and he held that the proposed legislation (as the Supreme Court had decided) was constitutional.

Mr. Call expressed his entire sympathy with the idea that the States had absolute control of the question of the traffic in intoxicating liquors and was willing to vote for almost any bill which would attain that and.

Mr. Call yielded the floor to Mr. Allison,

Mr. Call yielded the floor to Mr. Allison,

Mr. Allison explained that the House conferrees were unanimous in their persistence that the proviso inserted by the Senste should not remain in the bill. The phraseology adopted by the conference committee is the same that was proposed, supported, and maintained in the House by those who desired to restrain the liquor

Mr. Allison withdrew the report and said he would call it up to-morrow morning. The fortifications bill was reported from

Everything is in a bustle here in preparation for the grand onward march on Richmond to-morrow. Indeed many of our people, in order to avoid the crowd and rush to-morrow, went over to-day. Every train coming in has additional coaches which are packed with passengers a route to the capital city.

The Prince George Cavalry, Captain A. R. Nobles, marched over by turmpike to-day about forty strong.

The Petersburg Grays, the Petersburg Artillery, and the A. F. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans will fill up a solid train in the morning. The latter will march behind the headquariers flag of the old Twelfth regiment, which bears the scars it received in the battle of Seven Pines.

Long trains will come in by sections from the South to-morrow, and it will require the full capacity of the Richmond and Petersburg railroad to accommodate the travel from this city.

All business will be closed in Petersburg to-morrow, and the memory of General Lee will be honored as that of few other men has been.

A telegram was received here to-day from Lonedale, Allegbany county, announcing that Mr. Emmett Harrell, a former citizen of Petersburg, had been very seriously injured by a fall from a building. Mr. Harrell's family and relatives all live here, and much uneasiness is felt about his condition. It is feared that his injuries are fatal.

CHARLISTON, W. VA., May 28.—D. L. Maynor was to day sentenced by Judge Jackson, of the United States District Court, to six months' imprisonment and to a fine of $1,000 for forgery in a pension case. A. P. Williams was sentenced to imprisonment for twenty-four hours and to pay a fine of $300 for uttering forged papers. Maynor's father, Joe, drew a pension during his lifetime and authorized his son, D. L., to sign the voncher each month as the pension was paid. Williams, as postmaster, gave him each month the voncher and received the check bearing Joe Maynor's signature forged by D. L. Maynor's signature forged by forged by D. L. Maynor. After his father's death no notice was sent to the Pensian Department, but for two years the son continued to sign his father's name to the voucher and to receive the check. Williams continued to receive the check in payment of Maynor's account with him until the officers "got on to" the proceedings with the above roults, Maynor was also required to refund to the Government all the money unlawfully received by him.

Mr. Call yielded the floor to Mr. Allison, who presented the conference report on the army appropriation bill.

Mr. Ingalls inquired what had been done to regard to the Senate amendment probiting the sale of alcoholic liquors, beer, wine in canteens.

Mr. Allison said that the provision had a modified so as to read that "no alcoholic under the conference was its being heard by vardmen some distance away from the building, and they also thought they could discern a sound like the rushing of the building and as sound like the rushing of a volume of water beneath the building. The shock was followed by a second, and soon until nine distinct shocks had been felt. The peculiar feature of the discursance was its being heard by vardmen some distance away from the building, and they also thought they could discern a sound like the rushing of water.
